CLIMATE CHANGE-MAKERS
RESEARCH PROJECT

MANIFESTO

UNIVERSITY of TASMANIA

We want more education about climate change.

People say it's our future but they don't help us to learn about it

I want to learn about climate change at school

Creating climate action events across the state... that anyone (including homeschooling families) can get involved.

Students / young australians need to learn about climate change because it is an issue that will negatively affect our future young people are going to be the next doctors, scientists, politicians e.t.c.... If we want to end climate change or reduce the impact it will make, everyone needs to be educated to know about what it can do to us and what they can do to help

We want our learning about climate change to be fun and interactive.

We like to:

have fun while learning & making change.

Learn more about the science behind it + do experiments.

Make learning about climate action engaging for everyone.

Outdoor Climate Engagement in schools

Playing games like the heat is on

We want our education to include doing climate action.

Things like:

Climate action clubs at school to make action plans

Learn more about climate action strikes and groups.

Wear climate friendly clothing, no fast fashion.

Normalizing byo cutlery or supplying reusable plates/cups/cutlery.

What can I do to make a difference in our community

We want to speak for ourselves and to be listened to properly.

Problems are:

Not being heard

Agency to speak for yourself

Not educating people/hiding the truth to 'shelter' us

Adults don't listen to us or think we're playing a game

Adults thinking that children don't need to know about climate change

This is our future that is at stake, we have a right to speak and be taken seriously.

People not taking kids seriously

We want to learn how to influence others to care and act on climate change.

have the big conversations

Older generations or people in power need climate education more climate change rallies and speeches to get more people aware of the issue

the more people we influence and get intrigued and involved, the more impact it will make on ending climate change

I want help to end the complacency and influence real change, not just more empty words

I want to stop coal power

We want to feel safe to talk about climate change, and how it makes us feel.

Not everyone is confident enough to say what they believe.

The younger generation needs to know more about this, but they also need to feel supported.

Feeling supported and excited rather than worried or stressed

I want to improve education about the big feelings that come up when talking and thinking about climate change.

Mocking and taunting from others (calling names etc) for caring about the planet

We want to help others affected by climate change.

I want to learn about how we can prevent climate change and the actions the community can take (Making sure we are all safe)

Help countries affected by sea level rise (islands).

how to help save the animals from global warming family in other areas in Australia and around the world being affected by climate change

i think big polluting companies should be made to help people affected by climate change because they create climate change and they can afford to help. its hard for me to help

We want to connect with businesses and organisations doing work on climate change.

I think that going to climate rallies and asking for more funding for the government as well as setting up your own organisation to help with climate change ... is a good way to do these things as well

we want to get involved with bigger companies that will help us learn and/or do something about climate change.
